Go to the website (or have students go to the website if they have their own computers):

<http://www.pacerkidsagainstabullying.org/>.

Familiarize students with the website.

Choose "Kids Say" on the top menu, then click "Ask Sally." Read each of the children's tales

ACTIVITY:

Each "Dear Sally" entry ends with a question. Have students write their answers to the questions presented at the end of each tale.

Each story is followed with advice from the "crew" on the website. Have students volunteer to share their answers with the class, and compare these answers with the ones provided by the "crew."

FOLLOW-UP:

- Other website activities: The Pacer Kids website contains other educational games and activities. If students have an individual computer, encourage them to explore the website.
- Poster/collage: Have students cut out magazine pictures of people being bullies or pictures of people helping each other. Older students can write a caption under the picture explaining it. Have students compile their pictures together on a large poster which can be displayed in the classroom or hallway.
